Senate Group Prods AFL-CIO

Calls For Clean-Up Of Engineers Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rackets Investigating Committee prodded the AFL-CIO today for fast action to clean up the Operating Engineers Union.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) sent the labor federation a transcript of testimony in which union members denounced officials of the union's San Francisco and Long Island, N.Y., locals on many counts.

In four days of testimony, the Senate committee has heard witnesses charge officials of San Francisco Local 3 with misuse of thousands of dollars of union funds. Other witnesses accused officials of Long Island Local 138 of taking payoffs from employers, dictatorial methods, beatings, and frameups against members who opposed them.

McClellan practically wrung from William C. Dekoning Jr., the Long Island local's president, a promise to "do everything in my power" to reinstate three ousted members of the local who had challenged his rule.

After the hearing, Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy conferred with Dekoning. He quoted the union chief as "willing to straighten out anything the committee thought should be changed—subject to the union's constitution." Kennedy said he didn't know what that qualification meant.

Recessing the hearing until Monday, McClellan held all concerned under continuing subpoena.

McClellan ordered Dekoning to report in 10 days what he has done to reinstate ousted union member William Wilkens, Walter Miller and John Dekoning, a cousin of the local president.

Wilken and John Dekoning had joined fellow unionists in testifying about goon tactics, payroll padding, payoffs, and employers voting in union meetings. They also charged that former convicts had received a membership privilege — the right to vote — denied most other local members.

Charles Skura, another member of the local's reform faction, won a promise he will not be tried by the union on charges of crossing a picket line. He called the charges a frameup to silence him. Skura swore he was 12 miles away at the time of the alleged crossing. A committee aide, Jerome Adlerman, said he had confirmed this.

Peter Batallas, another dissident member of the Long Island local, testified that six "strong arm men" beat him into unconsciousness because he offered a motion at a 1955 meeting to let more members vote.

At least 9 Others Hurt In Tennessee

SELMER, Tenn. (AP)—The flagman of a Chicago-bound passenger train was killed and at least nine others injured early today when the last six cars derailed at a switch at nearby Ramer.

Three coaches, a diner and two pullman cars left the tracks at the tiny McNairy County town 80 miles east of Memphis. One coach and the empty diner overturned in a ditch. One pullman car came to rest at a 45-degree angle.

The flagman, A. C. Whitt of Birmingham, was found in a field 100 yards from the tracks. He died in a Corinth, Miss., hospital. Five others were hospitalized at Corinth.

The train, the Illinois Central's "Seminole", was running late after an earlier mishap at Birmingham, Ala. Mrs. Ruby Wilson, 37, was killed in a car-train crossing crash.

The Seminole, which began its run at Jacksonville, Fla., was moving on Gulf, Mobile and Ohio tracks.

After the Ramer mishap the remaining sections pulled into Jackson, Tenn., 32 miles north where three persons were hospitalized. The train then continued its run to Chicago.

Richard Osterdok, division superintendent at Jackson for the IC, declined to give a specific cause of the derailment but said the railroad is investigating. Traffic was expected to resume on the blocked line by noon today.

Ralph Haynes, 42, baggage handler from Jackson, Tenn., is reported the most seriously injured of those hospitalized at Corinth. Another crewman, fireman Hoyt Land of Haleyville, Ala., received treatment for minor injuries.

Two Senators Approve Red Exchange Plan

2 Others Are Wary On Idea of Trading Visits of Legislators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two senators today approved a reported proposal that members of Congress and the Russian Supreme Soviet exchange visits to watch each other at work.

Two other senators approached the matter more guardedly.

It was understood the proposal was made to Vice President Nixon Friday by Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin in an unusual 40-minute farewell call. Zarubin is returning to Moscow next week. He is expected to become a deputy foreign minister.

In the absence of any official confirmation, there were indications Nixon and State Department officials were favorably impressed with Zarubin's idea.

Would Require Congress' OK
Swapping of legislative delegations would require approval of Congress as well as the State Department.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he is "very favorable" to the idea of exchanging delegations from Congress and the Russian Parliament.

"I think an extension of cultural and other exchanges with Russia would promote better understanding," he said.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) thought the proposal a good idea. "I think we ought to be willing to meet them on even terms," Kefauver said in a separate interview.

"They ought to let our representatives go around there. If they do, we ought to extend them the same courtesy. The more understanding that is reached at the people level and the congressional level, the better it will be for all."

"Of course it ought to be kept in mind, and I'm sure the American people would, that the members of their Supreme Soviet are not freely elected representatives."

Must Consider All Aspects
Sen. Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic leader and a Foreign Relations committeeman, said Congress would have to consider all aspects of the proposed exchange.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.), another Foreign Relations committeeman who has visited Russia, said he thought it might be all right to exchange legislators "but I don't see anything that would be gained by it."

Zarubin sought the meeting with Nixon and asked the vice president to convey his good wishes to President Eisenhower. The Russian diplomat said he did not ask for a White House appointment because he said he knew the President was busy.

Gunman Steals $1,223 Near Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A gunman stole a $1,223 construction company payroll at a motel near here Friday. Sam Butler of Sparthansburg, S. C., a foreman of a construction crew at Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.'s Campbell works, told police he had drawn the money from a bank Thursday to pay the men.

He said the gunman released him after forcing him to drive here from the motel two miles north of Youngstown.

Ohio's Governor O'Neill

Gov. C. William O'Neill has completed his first year as Ohio's chief executive.

The year has been notable with achievements and, through sound planning and vision, the state's 42-year-old chief executive expects new objectives to be attained this year.

The O'Neill administration already has saved the voters $5 million and deleted $100 million from budget requests of the previous administration. Yet, O'Neill has met the expenses of operating the state government without new taxes and has forged ahead on a new highway program, educational improvements and welfare and other advancements.

KKK Planning To Hold Rally As Scheduled

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A Ku Klux Klan rally apparently will go on near here tonight as scheduled with a different group of Klansmen sponsoring it.

Howard White of the Burlington Times-News said he is convinced that the original sponsors, from the Burlington-Reidsville area, have pulled out and that Klansmen from Greensboro now are behind the rally.

The Rev. James Cole of Marion, S.C., self-styled leader of the North Carolina Klan, said Friday the rally would go on as scheduled.

Cole was leader of a KKK group that gathered last Saturday near Maxton, N.C., 10 miles south of here. Armed Lumbee Indians, angered at cross-burnings staged by the Klan in the Robeson County area as warnings against race mixing, broke up the rally within minutes of its start.

Doubts were raised Friday that the Klan would hold its scheduled rally near this textile industry city in central North Carolina.

Cole, informed Thursday that if he re-enters North Carolina he will be arrested as a fugitive, said he would not attend the rally. Cole is under indictment on a charge of inciting riot between the Indians and the Klansmen.

Walter Aderson, director of the State Bureau of Investigation at Raleigh, announced he had information that the owner of the rally site withdrew from the plans and that the rally was cancelled.

However, when the 33-year-old Cole was told of Anderson's statement, he said the meeting would go ahead as planned.

Glen Dolvin Convicted Of Boardman Robbery

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Glen Dolvin, 29, of nearby Boardman, was convicted of armed robbery Friday by a Mahoning County Common Pleas Court jury. His sentence was deferred pending a motion for a new trial. Dolvin was accused of a holdup at the J.C. Penney Co. store in Boardman on Halloween night 1956 in which about $5,000 was stolen.

Threat Made At Final Session Of Union Talks

5-Day Notice Given Company's Dodge Division At Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union may strike one of the big three car makers two months ahead of the time talks are scheduled to get under way on new contracts.

The UAW executive board Friday approved calling a strike at Chrysler Corp.'s Detroit Dodge main plant in a dispute over layoffs and work standards. The union served a five-day strike notice on Chrysler.

The strike threat was announced during the final session of the union's special three-day convention that approved 1958 bargaining demands, including a profit sharing plan, and set up a 50 million dollar strike fund.

Announces Showdown

The 3,000 delegates were adopting a resolution on how to deal with what the union calls speed-up practices in the auto industry when UAW Vice President Norman Matthews announced, "We will have a showdown at Chrysler."

Matthews, director of the union's Chrysler department, said a strike at the Dodge main plant "will shut down all Chrysler plants." The plant is a major supplier of parts for all Chrysler divisions.

Matthews said the company contended that UAW members did more work at Ford and General Motors plant and this put Chrysler at a competitive disadvantage. Chrysler had no immediate comment.

Matthews said he would join in negotiations between Dodge Local 3 and the company in an effort to head off a strike. C. Pat Quinn, president of the local, said Dodge main employed 33,000 in 1953 but was now down to 10,500. A strike would idle about 70,000 Chrysler workers in the Detroit area.

OK Strike Fund Hike

The convention voted overwhelmingly to raise an additional 16 million dollars for the union's strike fund by a special $5-per-month increase in the regular $3

Bible Words for Today

2 CORINTHIANS 12:9—"...but he said to me, 'My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness.'" (RSV)

He was frightened, although he would never admit it. Young men, kneeling at the threshold of ordination, are usually frightened by the tremendous impact of the task ahead and a sudden feeling of inadequacy, striking their very hearts and leaving them weak and trembling. He was not different from the rest, as the bishop approached his kneeling form.

The bishop paused before him and took his shaking hand. Placing it upon an open Bible, the bishop said, "Take thou authority to read the Holy Scriptures in the Church of God, and to preach the Word."

With an unuttered prayer of despair in his heart, and a growing doubt that he could ever live up to the requirements of such authority, the young man's attention was suddenly focused upon the words his eyes had found upon the page of the open Book: "My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness." Despair gave way to hope, and the young minister arose to serve.... with God.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Release Your Imprisoned Splendor

While looking through some old personal papers recently, I ran across a promotional folder put out by a lecture bureau in upstate New York about thirty years ago. It had a very youthful picture of this writer on its front cover and, I must say, I was both interested and humbled by the changes in my physiognomy that have taken place in the years that have passed since that photo was taken.

Peale

In those days, according to the photograph, even if I say so myself, the individual pictured was a right nice looking young man, head up, thrown back, thrown a ACK. It was a sort of exalted young face, and there was a light in the eye. I was a young preacher in Syracuse, New York, at the time and had already started speaking and lecturing on various platforms, trying to persuade people that they could do better with their lives, achieve greater things, and render more worthwhile service to their fellowmen.

TODAY, WHEN I LECTURE, I announce my talks by practical, down to earth, how-to titles. In those days the topics were more poetic. The lecture announced by this old folder was called "Imprisoned Splendor." There was a digest of it on the inside of the folder, and to my surprise, it contained a true inspirational note. For there is in each of us, if you please, an imprisoned splendor, and by the help of God it can be released so that we ordinary people can actually lead extraordinary lives. That is what I said to my audience back in those days, and many of them responded to it.

I recall one Syracuse business man who accompanied me on one of my lecture tours so that he might hear that lecture several times. He was president of an important company, although he was almost entirely self-educated, with only two or three years in a little country school. He told me that it was his practice when he found anyone from whom he thought he could learn something to fasten himself like a leech to that person until he was able to absorb all the other man could teach him.

HE WENT WITH ME for three lectures. As we were driving home from a talk in the little high school in Tully, New York, he told me: Norman, that's the secret of real living; get that imprisoned splendor released."

He was really moved as he continued: That's what has carried me on always. Ever since I can remember, I have had a longing to be somebody and do something in this world. Now I know what it is — it's my imprisoned splendor; that's what it is, and I now realize that it was put into me by God. I pray the Lord that I will really use it as it should be used."

I told him I would pray for him also. And he did use what he had within him to go on to greater attainments, not only in business but in scholarship as well. I was later privileged to attend a commencement at Syracuse University when he was honored for his scholarly achievements. He released his imprisoned splendor most impressively.

ISN'T IT A PITY that so many of us live and die with our finer qualities, our real capacity for great things locked up inside us? Isn't it unfortunate that so few people seem able to make their dreams come true? Yet we are all endowed to one degree or another with this imprisoned splendor. Dreams were never given to us to frustrate us, to finally lose their lustre and die. Dreams and hopes are designed to motivate us to great living.

Because the imprisoned splendor comes from God, it can be released by faith and prayer, plus unselfish outgoingness. The practice of your religious faith actually offers you full self-realization.

It gives you the opportunity to make your world the bright and shining place God meant it to be. Don't keep your inner splendor forever bottled up. Give it out, and you will truly find yourself.

Beyond the timber line rises sheer rock, towering above the clouds themselves. Looking at this great giant of nature we marvel at God's creations . . . and are aware of the comparative insignificance of man.

Yet, man is far from insignificant, save in physical size. For God, after all, made man in His image. And He gave man a brain, and a soul, with a sense of right and wrong. He gave him character and responsibility.

It is man who can progress to heights far greater than this mountain. But he needs help to do it—God's help, through the help of the Church.

You weren't meant to stand alone in this world. Remember that . . . and go to Church this Sunday.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A Spell of Economic Hibernation

In the text of the President's Economic Report now being studied in Congress and business circles, one phrase stands out: Inventory liquidation.

It describes the process that is the cause of the manufacturing and processing slowdown, which in turn is the cause of economic recession. The steel industry has been particularly the victim of the liquidation.

Auto manufacturers, accounting for about 18 per cent of steel production, have been using up their steel inventories since last fall. Some of them have been carrying on hand-to-mouth purchasing, as actual shortages occurred in their stocks on hand.

The President's Economic Report points out that inventory accumulations had been running at a rate of two billion dollars a year as recently as the third quarter of 1957 but were being used up in the final quarter at the rate of three billion a year.

Apparently, no economist has had the idea yet of comparing this consumption of materials and finished goods to hibernation, but the similarities are obvious. During hibernation, the animal's normal rate of activity slows down until it is almost imperceptible. Its life is sustained by "inventory." It is temporarily self-sufficient.

But when the hibernation ends and activity is resumed, the "inventory" has been used up. It must be replaced quickly. The animal develops a voracious appetite. I range aggressively in search of material to rebuild itself into prime condition.

The President's Economic Report suggests that the recession will be over when inventory liquidation cannot proceed any further; when economic "hibernation" is over. It does not pretend to know when this will be, and it does claim that the end is subject to any natural law, such as the seasonal end of hibernation at the close of winter.

Moreover, the report does not try to explain what caused it—whether economic hibernation is a cause or an effect or a little of each.

Only one thing about it seems sure and certain at this time, while the slowdown of activity is at its climax. When there is no more inventory to be liquidated and business and manufacturing must rehabilitate themselves, there will be a voracious appetite for all kinds of goods. The country will be temporarily out of everything it needs to restore it to a normal rate of activity.

Government by Stress and Strain

Many Americans, we feel certain, were made unhappy by Monday night's Republican politicking on television, because they had given no thought to the fact this is the year for another congressional election.

They had thought of it, variously, as the year to catch up to Russian satellites, to reorganize the Department of Defense, to snap out of the business recession, to improve the school system, or to institute a new weapons system based on rocketry.

Perhaps they had thought of it in less important terms—the year to paint the house, go to Yellowstone, or pay off the mortgage. But they had not realized that in partisan politics it is the year for a Republican administration to fight for majorities in both houses of Congress and for the Democratic majority to fight back.

Politics has been made to seem trivial compared with questions of survival, the dynamic thrust of Russian science, misgivings about U.S. education and uncertainties about a worldwide slowdown of industrial activity.

Yet, politics never is trivial in the United States, whose government survives on a steady diet of stress and strain fed to it by a two-party system. With blessedly rare exceptions, the "loyal opposition" in Washington is faithful to its functions. Calls for unity, which in reality are calls for suspension of judgment, are rare.

Partisans blast each other relentlessly, the way Democrats have been blasting the Eisenhower administration and its backers since last fall and the way Republicans now are beginning to blast in reply.

The campaign for the congressional elections of 1958 was blasted open when Sputnik I startled the world last October. At that time it was predetermined that the issue would be whether or not the Eisenhower administration could be blamed by its critics for letting the Soviet Union stage a demonstration of strength at U.S. expense in world opinion.

The Democrats, whose morale had been shattered by their murderous schisms over civil rights and a sorry spectacle of race hatred in Little Rock, were given a new lease on political optimism by the reaction from the Russian satellites. They quickly and shrewdly diverted attention from their own party's responsibility as the congressional majority. If the business recession is a political issue in the 1958 campaign, the Democrats may even be able to do what they did 30 years ago — make voters forget the existence of Congress and aim all criticism at the White House.

That's politics. At a time when nothing seems to be taking a normal course, politics is as normal as a January thaw.

No Pride Involved

The great thirst for knowledge that is newly fashionable in the United States adds punch to the claim that the government should translate all Russian material it can lay its hands on.

No pride is involved in taking advantage of Russian research now — not since it was revealed that precious information about Russian satellites had been contained in Russian publications which never were translated after they were sent to Washington.

This is part of the ticklish subject of government secrecy being investigated by Congress. There is a kind of "setting-hen" mentality in government, as there is in every organized effort, which instinctively wants to sit on everything it can cover up. These chicken-minded people are going to bear watching now that knowledge for knowledge's sake is being deemed not only respectable but imperative.

By H. I. Phillips

son, the idea evidently being to prove that beer is here to stay.

What's become of the fellow who used to prowling around a Motorboat Show tapping every hull for heavy timbers? And counting all the ribs? He's almost completely missing. This is the age of light construction with new and adequate woods and plastics, with youth the big buyer and speed a top demand. Watching an old-timer at a boat show you would assume he wanted a ship only for monsoons and hurricanes. He may seldom have gone far from home but he had gales, reefs and hidden rocks in mind, just in case. Today boating has become a national sport, entertainment and jaunt recreation. Most of the buyers know very well they contemplate no journeys around Cape Horn. Their idea is to have fun weekends close to port, and not to rival Joseph Conrad.

THE SAME FACES and pretty much the same routines on the airwaves are getting monotonous. Hence a cheer for an unusual event, the appearance of two young performers named Elaine May and Mike Nichols on the recent "Omnibus." Here was grand material wonderfully done by sensational new talent. They also wrote the sketches. But once again a scene loaded with credit lines for everybody but the users and the fiddle repairmen barely mentioned the most refreshing personalities to come along in years.

Reasonable Budget For '58

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Back in the Truman years I often consulted Dr. Julius Hirsch, an economic consultant who prior to the Hitler regime had high standing in the economic and university life of Germany.

Invariably, his predictions of spending and of tax income were much more accurate than those of the President. Indeed, the various revisions of estimates by President Truman as the year wore on were always moving toward what Hirsch had estimated in January.

This year I have consulted oracle Hirsch again. His verdict on this year's budget estimates is not unhappy. He calls attention to the size of the budget estimates compared with the gross national product and shows that the percentage of the GNP represented by the budget estimate for fiscal 1958 is not much above 1956 and 1957 and is below 1952, 1953, 1954 and 1955.

HIS FIGURES, in which the GNP data are based on the President's Council of Economic Advisers publication "Indicators" for January 1958, are as follows in current dollar values:

Fiscal Year	Budget	GNP	Estimate	Avg	Pct.
1950	39.6	271	14.7
1951	44.1	306	14.4
1952	65.4	337	19.3
1953	74.3	354	21.0
1954	67.8	362	18.7
1955	64.6	367	17.6
1956	66.5	403	16.5
1957xx	69.1	434	16.2
1958xx	72.8	438	16.6
1959xx	73.9	447	16.4

x in Billions xx Estimated
I am quite familiar with the inadequacy of the method employed in calculating the GNP. But for comparative purposes and in this context they are useful.

The President and members of his administration are going to be quite justified in calling attention to this comparison and, for the most part, in placing the responsibility on a Democratic Congress for any large increases in spending beyond the estimates.

There may be increases for which subsequent requests by the President may be made as conditions require them.

It is true that there is plenty of fat in the requests for civilian purposes. But in a number of respects the President has taken bold steps notably in holding back the demands of school propagandists and public power zealots. But if the line can be held, business should have some reassurance from this prospect.

THAT THERE will be a deficit Hirsch readily admits. But he says that any deficit such as may be contemplated will not greatly contribute to inflation.

Back in the Roosevelt days when the administration was deliberately attempting to induce rising prices by deficits the effort was not successful. A wave of wage increases such as Reuther is demanding would be vastly more inflationary than a deficit of a billion or two.

Hirsch further urges that in this budget are certain capital expenditures, such as the building by the Atomic Energy Commission of prototype plants for the production of power, which might well be spread over a period of years. These would amount, Hirsch estimates, to somewhere between five and nine billion.

Above all Hirsch points out that business and consumers' confidence to which much of the prosperity of the past few years is due must play a large part. That confidence may well come with a reduction in the rate of increase in the unemployed and from vigorous presidential assurances of confidence himself in the capacity of a free economy to regain its equilibrium if relieved of threats from hostile government action.

In short, this is no time to lose that assurance which is justified by past experiences with slowing business activity.

Red Propaganda Backed by Military Purposes

Every move Moscow makes in propaganda almost always has a military purpose behind it — a deliberate effort to aid Soviet strategy for war.

A most dramatic example of this was given in the last 48 hours. The Soviet foreign ministry on Wednesday night of this week warned the nations of the Middle East that the United States plans to establish nuclear and missile bases on their territory and argued against it. But before this news dispatch came over the wires, another dispatch had been received on Tuesday as follows:

"LONDON, Jan. 21. — The Soviet Union is building seven missile bases in Bulgaria and Albania to 'cover' NATO's sensitive southeastern flank and the Mediterranean, diplomatic dispatches from Athens report.

"The sources said five bases for guided missiles are being constructed in Bulgaria and two more in Albania.

"Experts said missiles from these bases not only could cover the Mediterranean but could strike into part of North Africa.

"The reports on Russian missile activities came from Greece which is in a good position to cover activities in Bulgaria and Albania but other sources independently made similar reports.

"The Soviet is reported to have dispatched a large number of experts to both countries to supervise establishment of the bases and to train personnel in use of the new weapon."

It would be very helpful indeed to the military objectives of the Soviet Union to prevent any missile bases from being established in the Middle East for the Western forces to use, while at the same time the Soviets build up their own missile bases for offensive purposes.

THE COMUNIST tactics have met with an emphatic rebuff by President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles. Doubtless they have long been aware through intelligence sources that the Soviets were building missile bases in eastern Europe. The joint statement of the President and the secretary, issued on Wednesday, read as follows:

"The United States is fully conscious of the threat to the area (the Middle East) which comes from the north. Formerly it was the threat of czarist imperialism. Now it is the threat of Communist imperialism, again expressed only yesterday by the Soviet Union.

17 Points of Action

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the most important and chilling statements to come out of Washington in a long time is the one just made — by the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee — on our defense position as compared with the Soviet Union.

It is not pretty. It says the Russians are ahead in missiles and submarines; are catching up in air power and, at the rate they're going, will forge ahead; can develop new weapons faster, and are producing scientists and engineers at a greater rate.

None of that is new. All those comparisons have, in one way or another, been drawn by witnesses before the subcommittee which began its investigation of our defense program after the Soviet Union fired its Sputniks.

But in the days since the Sputniks went aloft the public has probably become confused about the true picture because of hillygiding by some witnesses and the blame-naming by politicians of both parties against one another. This statement, presented to the Senate late Thursday, puts the picture in focus. It is as informed, impartial, authoritative and non-political as such a document can be hoped to be. It's significant for three reasons:

1. The subcommittee drew its conclusions after 101 days of investigation in which it heard 70 witnesses, interviewed over 200 experts, and took more than 7,000 pages of testimony.

2. The subcommittee is made up of Democrats and Republicans. All agreed on what the statement contained. This unanimity makes it impartial and nonpolitical. The members were talking as senators and not as Democrats or Republicans.

3. Because of the impartial nature of the statement it will be the background for judging what President Eisenhower proposes, and Congress does, in the days ahead to catch up with and get in front of the Russians.

After listing the fields in which the U.S.S.R. is ahead of this country, or soon may be, the subcommittee listed 7 points of action for the government to take to make the best use of its vitality, brains and manpower.

The statement was grim. It showed beyond question this country has been dragging its feet and has been asleep although it did not attempt to blame either the

"We respect the proven courage and determination of these nations their governments and people to defend their independence, several of them — Iraq, Turkey, Pakistan and Iran — have joined together in the Baghdad Pact.

"We applaud their exercise, pursuant to the United Nations Charter of their inherent right of collective self-defense and we are glad to help them. Our will to do so has been particularly expressed in the Middle East resolution, adopted by the Congress in March, 1957."

THIS RESOLUTION, is usually known as the "Eisenhower Doctrine," and it is significant that the statement just issued reminds the Soviets that the doctrine still stands.

In fact, it is on this basis that Secretary Dulles is attending the meeting of the Baghdad Pact countries, although the United States is not a signatory of the treaty itself.

The State Department in another statement on Wednesday called attention to the Soviet government's claim that Mr. Dulles is making his trip to the Middle East "to compel" the countries there to accept American missile bases. The secretary pointed out that nobody is compelling the Middle East countries to defend themselves as this is a legitimate function of their own. He added:

"It is incredibly arrogant that those who boast of their atheistic system and of their intentions to impose that system throughout the world that those who believe must on that account, be doomed to be militarily inferior to the aggressive atheists."

THE REFERENCE to religion arose because the press chief of the Soviet Foreign Office had said to a news conference that "the building of war bases, the deployment of nuclear weapons and the siting of rocket launching ramps in the Middle East, next to the Moslem holy places, constitute a sacrilege of the Moslem religious sentiments."

The Moscow foreign office didn't point out just where in the Moslem religion there is any tenet which forbids defense against attack or which holds that self-preservation against barbarism is not justified.

The transparently apocryphal comments of the Soviet officials are related directly to the illusion that their propaganda will be all-pervasive and that peoples will be fooled by it.

Bulgaria and Albania aren't far way from the "holy places" of the Moslem peoples. For ballistic missiles fired by Soviet armies from bases in Albania and Bulgaria can destroy every country in the Middle East if undefended and unprepared to retaliate.

Once Over

Mike Quill wants television in subway train to popularize the rides. He doesn't think subway riders get enough fight and wrestling programs without TV. The question of suitable video stuff naturally comes up. Will a lady battling for a seat get "Sir Lancelot" or "Medic"?

How can a man with a bass violin in combat with woman with an armful of bundles react to "Uncommon Valor," "Passport To Danger" or "It's Fun To Travel"?

Will a battered passenger jammed between a door and a steel stanchion feel better if he can get "Woody Woodpecker"?

LET'S TAKE the morning rush hour. Fighting for survival in a train around 7 a.m., what comfort would "Lurel and Hardy," "Tinker's Workshop" or the "Sandy Becker Show" give? Dave Garroway is on but is not exactly the TV feature to make people happy while bleeding.

The afternoon rush? Well, around 4:30 you can be knocked around to "Edge of Night" or "Susie."

During the 5 to 6 transit hardships you would have to find comfort through "Mickey Mouse," "Abbott & Costello," "Popeye the Sailor" and "Report from Rutgers." They would get you nothing flat on your back with a stranger's foot in your face.

ROY RUGERS, "Gun For Hire," "Well Fargo," "Tombstone Days" or "Bat Master-son" would be the only films catching true mood of subway adventure, and they are not on at peak of the rush hours.

We asked Aristotle ("Tex") Schultz, the cowboy cabbie, about television (or is it Quill-elevision?) in the subway. "I don't put up my cab and go home in the subway until after 9 at night," he said, "I get 'Trackdown' or 'Zane Grey Theater,' which should be switched to the rush hours. All I hope is that if they put TV in the subway they cut the commercials, especially the one that begins with the pitch, 'Do you feel low, irritable and nervous? (Then for instant relief go to your drugstore NOW.)'"

The N. Y. Transportation authorities are against Quill's TV notions. They have troubles enough without being flooded with complaints that a picture is out of focus.

YOUR INCOME TAX PRIMER: Chapter Eleven

Retirement Income Credit

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
(Written for NEA Service)

There is one more schedule to consider before you can make up your mind whether to file your return on the simple form 1040-A or the more complicated form 1040. This last schedule is for the retirement income credit.

All retired taxpayers over 65 and those taxpayers under 65 who are retired under a public retirement system established by the United States, or a state, territory, possession or political subdivision are allowed a credit against their tax of 20 per cent of their "retirement income."

An explanation of the retirement income credit and an example of how to compute the credit can be found on page 14 of the Form 1040 instructions. The credit may be as much as $240 in tax for each person who is qualified to claim it.

You now have the information needed to choose which tax return to use in reporting your 1957 income.

Here are some tips which will help you:

You may use Form 1040 - A if:

1. Your gross income is less than $5,000, and
2. Your gross income was received in the form of salary, wages, dividends, or interest and
3. Your gross income from sources other than wages subject to withholding does not exceed $100.

A married couple may make a joint return on Form 1040-A if the combined income meets the above test. Married couples whose legal residence is in a community property state may not file separate returns on Form 1040-A.

Do not use Form 1040-A if:

1. You qualify as "head of the household" or "surviving spouse." (See article 2 of this Tax Primer series.)
2. Your personal deductions exceed 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income. (See articles 9 and 10.)
3. You have any reimbursed expenses, out-of-town travel expenses, transportation expenses related to your work, or expenses as an outside salesman. (See article 4.)
4. You have a dividend income in excess of the dividend exclusion.

You may use Form 1040 - A if:

1. Your gross income is less than $5,000, and
2. Your gross income was received in the form of salary, wages, dividends, or interest and
3. Your gross income from sources other than wages subject to withholding does not exceed $100.

A married couple may make a joint return on Form 1040-A if

Check the answer you think is correct and then compare with the answers printed below.

1. If your personal deductions exceed 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income, which form should you use?
( ) B. Form 1040 and use the standard deduction.
( ) C. Form 1040 and itemize your deductions.
2. Check the tax breaks which you cannot claim on Form 1040-A.
( ) A. $50 dividend exclusion.
( ) C. Sick pay exclusion.

Answers: 1-C; 2-B, C, D and E.

5. You are entitled to the credit for retirement income explained above in this article.

24 Overcome By Gas Fumes At Jackson

JACKSON, Ohio (AP)—Gas from a blast furnace overcame 24 men Friday night. One dropped 15 feet from a platform and fractured his skull.

Of the 24, only seven were hospitalized, including Chris Williams, 30, of Jackson, reported in critical condition after the 15-foot fall. The others were treated at hospitals and released.

It happened at the Interlake Iron Corp. plant here as an outdoor blast furnace, recently overhauled, was being put back into operation.

Gen. Supt. J. A. MacMillan said about a half-dozen workers were standing on a platform made of pipe and framework, 15 feet above the ground. The pipe carried the furnace gas to a stove and boiler.

As a valve was turned, allowing the gas to flow through the pipe, some of it escaped and overcame the workers.

Other employees rushed to the rescue and they too were overcome, MacMillan said.

The gas, containing carbon monoxide fumes, was thick enough to overcome workers in the open air.

The last two men on the platform had to be removed by firemen using protective masks.

Those overcome were treated with oxygen at the scene and later sent to hospitals at Gallipolis and nearby Oak Hill.

The seven who were held, including Williams, are William Jasper Heading, Delmar Shevard, Delmar Stiffler, Ralph Houser, Roger Reed and Herb Simpson. (Ages and hometowns not available.)

Those of you using Form 1040-A may, if you wish, compute your own tax from the schedule on the instructions. Or, if you prefer, you can leave the tax computation spaces blank and let the District Director compute your tax.

The District Director of Internal Revenue will use the tax table printed on the instructions for Form 1040-A to compute your tax and send you a refund or a bill depending on whether too much tax or too little tax was withheld from your pay. If you compute your own tax, you must pay any tax due when you file the return.

Those of you using the Short Form 1040 should fill in page 1 and, if necessary, part of page 2 showing all your exemptions and all your income and the schedules on page 4 if applicable to you. Then find your tax from the Tax Table on the last page of the official instructions.

Just follow the simple instructions at the top of the table and be sure to select the exemption column that corresponds to the number of exemptions you claim on page 1. Then enter the tax in Item 12, on page 1. The last few steps necessary to complete your Short Form 1040, will be described in tomorrow's article.

Those of you who itemize deductions or who have incomes in excess of $5,000 must use the tax computation schedule on page 2 of the return to compute your tax.

NEXT: The final steps.

The federal government has not made, at yet, a "strong effort" to provide American scientists with research facilities to match Russia's. So says Dr. Alan T. He told a House government operations subcommittee that the budget bureau cut the foundation's basic research funds by 50 per cent in fiscal '58 and knocked 20 per cent off the amount asked for fiscal '59.

Guarding Your Health

By DR. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Cause of Stroke Vital In Treatment

Such names as apoplexy, or stroke, are not particularly accurate but they are in such common use that everyone should know just what they mean.

Both terms are used to include several different varieties of disorders involving the blood supply to the brain. Taking all together they are estimated as being responsible for the loss of about 172,000 lives annually in the United States alone.

THERE ARE TWO principal kinds of stroke. One is the formation of a clot or thrombus in one of the blood vessels supplying a portion of the brain.

Sometimes the clot is formed in the blood vessel; less commonly it is carried there from some other part of the body and is called an embolus.

The other major type of stroke is the result of bleeding from a blood vessel supplying the brain.

In clotting, the passageway for the flow of blood is narrowed, slowing blood flow and hence making clotting more likely.

In the other, brittleness of the wall of the blood vessel is produced which makes bleeding more likely than it would be through a flexible blood vessel.

In both, the major underlying disorder responsible is likely to be hardening of the arteries.

But this is only a small part of the story. The symptoms resulting from either a clot or a hemorrhage depend on the size of the area involved and the particular brain tissues damaged.

THUS, IF A SMALL artery supplying a relatively unimportant part of the brain is affected the stroke may be virtually unnoticed so far as symptoms of the brain are concerned. Because the symptoms are the result of brain injury they may be alike, regardless of whether the cause is a clot or bleeding.

However, not only the immediate symptoms, but also the degree and rate of recovery are tremendously influenced by the size and location of the damage.

WE NEED MORE information on the causes of hardening of the arteries, not only of those in the brain, but everywhere. It is important to try to tell whether a stroke is the result of a clot or a hemorrhage.

For example, there is work now going on with drugs called anticoagulants which delay clotting. Their use may prove extremely valuable to prevent or treat strokes resulting from clots; but one would not want to use them in strokes resulting from bleeding.

Recovery from strokes depends on many factors, but even a small one should not be taken lightly. Even today many victims make remarkable recoveries from stroke and a hopeless attitude is certainly not in order.

For a recent longer discussion on this subject I recommend the new booklet entitled, "Good News for Stroke Victims" (25c) recently issued by the Public Affairs Committee, 22 East 38th Street, New York 16, New York.

STORIES OF

Gems and Gem Stones

THE ALFRED JEWEL
Let's take a LOOK at one of the many famous relics among England's collection of jewels. The most curious of these is perhaps The Alfred Jewel.

Gem specialists believe that the jewel was made under the personal direction of King Alfred himself.

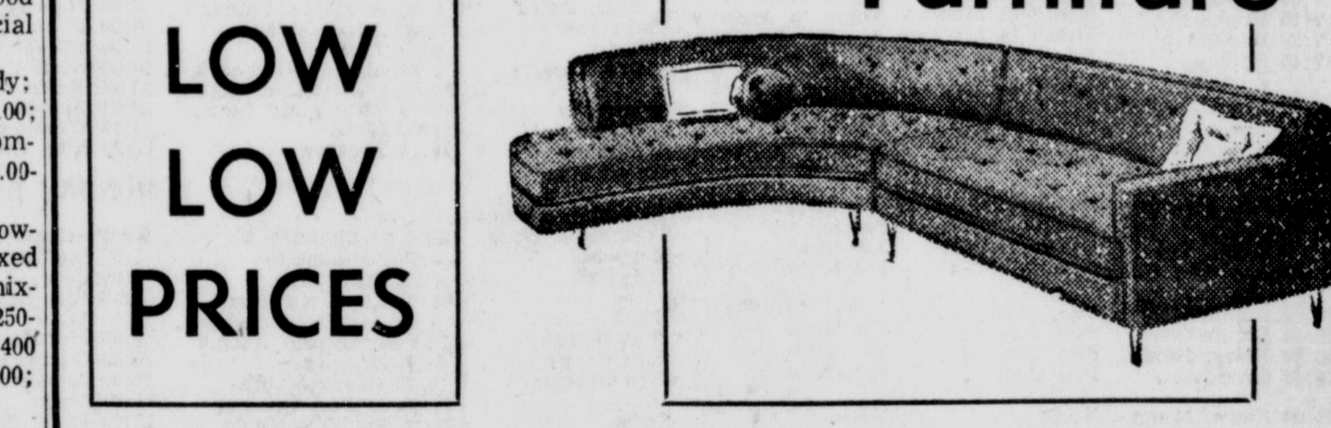

This gem was discovered at Newton Park near Somerset, in 1693, and was later presented to the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford. As far as has been ascertained, no purpose for the jewel has ever been discovered. It might have formed the central ornament in a crown, or it may have been worn as a pendant.

In general shape, it is an oval elongated at the lower end, somewhat like a hand-glass with a wide handle. The design represents a man, supposed by some to be the figure of Christ, holding a scepter in each hand; other experts on ancient jewelry believe it to be the figure of a revered saint of that time. Legend has it that St. Cuthbert appeared to the Saxon King during his stay on the Isle of Altheiney, where, in 878, Alfred sought refuge from the Danes.

The jewel was embellished by a master goldsmith, being decorated with colorful semi-transparent enamel, filigree, and granular goldwork; and around its sloping sides, in letters of gold, runs the legend: AELFRED MEC HEHT GEWYRCAN (Alfred ordered me to be made.)

Dallas Lawyer Reported to Be Teamsters' Choice As Monitor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Can a novel monitor system keep the scandal-stricken Teamsters Union on the straight and narrow?

The answer depends on the three monitors and how their ideas are carried out by the new Teamsters president, James R. Hoffa. He says he'll "give serious consideration" to their views.

The monitors are to be named next Tuesday as part of a compromise settlement of a lawsuit that had been aimed at stopping Hoffa from taking over as head of the 1.4 million-member union. Thirteen rank-and-file Teamsters members from New York had brought the suit, contending Hoffa's election was rigged at the union's Miami Beach convention last October.

Under the settlement agreement, Hoffa was permitted to take office and provision was made for monitors to look over his shoulder, with limited advisory functions. They are to report from time to time to Federal District Judge F. Dickinson Letts.

The Teamsters Union is to select one of the three monitors. The Teamsters members who brought the suit will pick another. The third will be chosen by the other monitors, or by Judge Letts on Tuesday.

It was reliably reported the Teamsters (U) had selected L.N.D. (Nat) Willis Jr., Dallas Teamsters attorney, as their monitor.

Hoffa said "We're going to run the union where everybody can see it."

"The monitors are only advisers. They're limited as to certain things they can say or do. The ordinary operations of the union don't come under their review."

"But certainly as long as they'll be here we'll give serious consideration to any views or recommendations they may bring to our attention."

The monitors, under the settlement terms, are to counsel Hoffa and fellow Teamsters officers, nearly all Hoffa men, on steps to insure fair elections and union meetings, and model union bylaws and financial safeguards.

There is nothing to force Hoffa or the Teamsters to follow any advice in these matters. As one Teamsters source explained it, the monitors "can't blow the whistle, or scream out 'Oh no!'"

A complaint from the monitors to Judge Letts could bring on public attention.

Farmers May Sign 1958 Corn Acreage Reserve Contracts

L. L. Moff, chairman of the Mahoning County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced today that eligible Mahoning County farmers who wish to participate in the 1958 corn acreage reserve program may sign agreements at the ASC Office, 7 W. Main St., Canfield, during the sign-up period which will continue through March 7.

Moff explained that under the 1958 program it will be necessary for each producer who wishes to place land in the "Soil Bank" to furnish the County ASC Committee with the crop history for the last two years, as this information is needed to establish a "Soil Bank base" for the farm.

The Soil Bank base will be determined primarily on the basis of the average of the acreage of land devoted to the so called soil depleting crops during the past two years. The base crops, in general, are all crops produced on the farm during 1957 and 1958, except Hay.

If the farm had a soil bank base established in 1957 that base will apply for 1958, he said.

Requirements under the 1958 Corn Acreage Reserve Program include: (1) Reducing corn acreage below the farm's acreage allotment; (2) limiting the harvest of Soil Bank base crops to a "permanent acreage," in general, the Soil Bank base less the number of acres in the Soil Bank; (3) controlling noxious weed on the Acreage Reserve land; (4) All land signed up in the Soil Bank must be moved; and (5) controlling erosion on the land where this is necessary.

World Will Need New Energy Source

H-Fusion May Furnish Unlimited Power Source

Taming the H-bomb could give all nations unlimited power or energy for millions of years.

Today's announcement of British progress on the problem at Harwell makes it plain that commercial use is still years away, but the fact that scientists have unlocked some of his secrets is of vast importance to the world of the future.

Here's why: We are rapidly using up the coal and oil we burn to warm our homes, run our autos and produce electrical energy.

The energy locked up within the hearts or nuclei of atoms, however, is virtually inexhaustible.

Atom hearts contain the basic material or mass of everything, living or lifeless. Some of this atomic mass can be transformed into energy. This is what happens in A-bombs or atomic power plants.

The nucleus of an atom of uranium-235 (or certain other heavy atoms) is split or fissioned into two or more pieces. But all these pieces together aren't as heavy as the original single nucleus. Some of the matter was changed into useful energy.

The world doesn't have inexhaustible supplies of the heavy atoms that will split this way. One estimate is that all such reserves would give us energy equal to 10 to 100 times the amount of all the world's remaining coal.

In fusion, lightweight atoms combine to create heavier ones. Two atoms of double-weight hydrogen become one atom of helium, for example. The heart of this helium atom weighs less than the two original hydrogen atoms. Some of the original mass turned into energy.

It takes tremendous heat and pressure to produce the fusion.

The peacetime problem is to get enormous temperatures and materials and methods to keep H-fusion going at a controlled rate and draw off useful heat from it. This is what scientists hope to solve. They are making some progress.

Controlled H-fusion means we could use double-weight hydrogen, called deuterium, as our principal fuel without dangerous radioactive by-products. The world's oceans contain enough to power civilization for millions or even billions of years.

And deuterium is not costly to get from the seas. Cost has been estimated as making deuterium less than per cent as expensive as coal as a fuel.

South Dakota Man Admits Killing Girl, 12

WINNER, S.D. (AP)—The body of a 12-year-old schoolgirl was recovered Friday night from a 30-foot well on the farm where Paul Edward Huber, 26, lived.

Marvin Talbott, state's attorney said Huber — held on a murder charge — had made oral and written statements that he killed the girl, Leslie Benedict, when she resisted his advances.

Huber said he picked the girl up in his car Wednesday morning and offered to drive her to school.

Instead, Talbott said the suspect took Leslie to the bachelor quarters he occupies on the farm, owned by his father. After strangling the girl, Huber disrobed his victim, burned her clothes, dragged the body to the well and covered it with debris, Talbott said.

More than 200 searchers, aided by planes and a bloodhound, were seeking the missing girl when Huber made his statement. Leslie was one of the seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Benedict, who moved here three years ago from Whiting, Iowa.

Because the body could not be reached through the narrow, foot-wide well shaft, crews had to dig an adjoining hole.

Sheriff James Shoemaker said first had questioned the statement when initial search of the well failed to disclose any body. On further questioning, the officer said Huber admitted dumping rocks and earth on top of it.

Cleveland Police Shake-Up Expected

CLEVELAND (AP)—Chief Frank Story is expected to be ousted in a general shake-up of the city's Police Department, The Cleveland Plain Dealer said in a story published today.

Information about the changes came from City Hall and Central Police Station sources, The Plain Dealer said.

Robert C. Greenhalgh, 33, a former FBI agent and now assistant safety director, will probably succeed Story, according to the Plain Dealer account.

A recent sharp increase in crime and a growing number of unsolved homicides may have spurred the predicted shake-up. City Hall observers were quoted as saying.

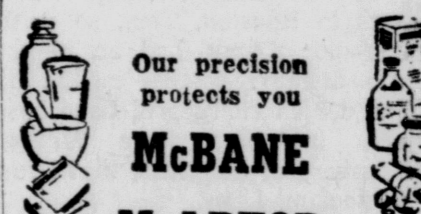

Mayor Anthony Celebrezze said he knew of no changes except ordinary transfers. Safety Director John N. McCormick declined comment.

The Plain Dealer said the shake-up also would include the appointment of a new inspector and deputy inspector, a new detective chief, two new captains, eight new lieutenants and 11 new sergeants. At least 100 men, including all district vice squads, are expected to be transferred.

Joe Brown Posts TKO Over Williams

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lightweight Champ Joe Brown, winner in a sudden finish over up and coming Ernie (Sonny Boy) Williams, today pondered what may be his last year of boxing and said:

"It looks as though Lane is the logical contender."

He referred to Kenny Lane of Michigan, who has his entire estate and the National Boxing Assn. booming him for a championship match.

"I'm in good shape," Brown said, "and I'm ready to fight him today. But that's up to my manager."

Brown's manager, Lou Viscusi, was in Houston, Tex., so neither Joe—nor Kenny—had an immediate answer. Viscusi in the past has denied charges of Lane boosters, including some Michigan members of Congress, that Brown is ducking Lane.

Viscusi contends he has had difficulty getting together with Lane's handlers on a site for the meeting.

Gilbert Jackson, NBA president, declared Friday Brown must arrange by April 11 for a bout with Lane or face loss of recognition.

Brown, who at 31 says he wants to retire after this year, had a hard time with Williams before winning on a fifth round technical knockout in their non-title scrap Friday night.

Williams, a 21-year-old Washington prospect, was forced to quit at 1:17 of the round when ring physician John Kneipp said a deep cut over the left eye made it too risky to continue.

Referee Ray Bowen scored it 38-34, Judge Charley Buck 39-33, and Judge Joe Bunsu 40-37. The Associated Press had it even, 38-38.

THE QUAKERS PLAYED

a stalling, deliberate style offense in these last two minutes.

Even though Pauline fouled out with 1:55 left, Platt picked up the lead and scored Salem's final half dozen tallies to preserve the hard earned victory.

It was apparent throughout the game that the Quakers weren't playing a "bad" contest or missing their shots (they made 25-60 for so close was the phenomenal shooting by the Bengals).

They made their 53 per cent by hitting on 26-46 shots. Salem made 22 of 31 fouls and Wellsville 15 of 26.

Salem's next game is Tuesday at Youngstown South. The locals appear on the home floor again Jan. 31 against East Liverpool.

South lost its second game in 12 starts last night by bowing to Youngstown Chaney 57-54.

Last night's officials were Jim Miglore of East Liverpool and John Russ of Youngstown.

Knicks Drop 125-102 Loss To Celtics

By The Associated Press
The New York Knickerbockers now have their own Black Friday to remember in the National Basketball Assn.

It was Friday when the Knicks dropped a 125-102 decision to the Boston Celtics, fell into last place in the Eastern Division and lost $400.

The defeat coupled with Philadelphia's 102-92 victory over the Cincinnati Royals left the Knicks a half-game back of the third place Warriors in their duel for a playoff position.

The fines were the result of action taken by NBA president Maurice Podoloff against coach Vince Boryla, captain Carl Braun and trainer Don Friedrich for their part in the Jan. 12 fracas at Madison Square Garden in which the Knicks dropped a 115-110 overtime game to Philadelphia.

Boryla was fined $325 for berating and charging an official. Braun was assessed $50 for throwing a ball at referee Lou Eisenstein and Friedrich $25 for berating the officials and other misconduct.

The Knicks had no answer to Boston's attack Friday night as Tommy Heinsohn, NBA rookie last year, scored 27 points and veteran Bob Cousy added 22 more. Guy Sparrow topped the losers with 17.

Three More Indians Sign '58 Contracts

CLEVELAND — Three more Cleveland Indians have signed 1958 contracts. They are outfielder Rocky Colavito, infielder Joe Altobelli and pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm. The Indians also have signed Bill Stewart, a retired umpire, as a scout to cover the New England territory.

Stewart is remembered by Cleveland fans as the National League umpire who called the pick-off play against the Indians in the 1948 World Series.

Stewart called Phil Masi of the Boston Braves safe in the controversial play and Masi went onto score the only run in a 1-0 defeat for Bob Feller.

FIGHT RESULTS
By The Associated Press
Washington, D.C. — Joe Brown, 157½, New Orleans, stopped Ernie (Sonny Boy) Williams, 136½, Washington, 5 (non-title).

GOLF CLUB OFFICERS—John Hochadel, seated at left, is the newly-elected president of the Salem Golf Club for 1958. He succeeds Robert S. McCullough, Jr.

Lane Expecting Territorial, Franchise Changes to Be Ok'd

NEW YORK — Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane said today he was willing to "bet all the tea in China" the Major Leagues today will make all cities with a two million or more population eligible for two big league teams.

Lane, a member of the four-man committee which recommended a set of new rules governing territorial and franchise changes, conceded there might be opposition from several American League clubs, but added such opposition would not affect the outcome of the vote.

"We know for certain that the National League will cast an unanimous vote in favor," Lane said. "Commissioner Ford Frick already has gone on record as being delighted with our recommendations. In case of a deadlock between the two leagues, Frick has the authority to cast the deciding vote. It doesn't take a genius to figure out the outcome."

Lane said he had talked with Dan Topping, co-owner of the New York Yankees, who assured him he was in favor of the proposal. Topping had previously declared he would seek to bar the National League from re-obtaining a franchise anywhere in New York City, excepting Brooklyn. An informal poll of the American League clubs showed that Detroit was one of those opposed to the two-million population plan. Baltimore, New York and Kansas City were non-committal. Washington, Boston, Cleveland and Chicago were in favor. The two-million cities are New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Detroit. Only Chicago now has two teams.

Several stipulations are attached to the recommendations. The most important is that ball parks in any city must have seating capacities and other standards acceptable to the league and must be at least five air miles apart. That, of course, would eliminate any possibility of a major league team in the Polo Grounds, which is less than a mile from Yankee Stadium.

A second club moving into former minor league territory that has been occupied by a major league team within the past five years—as in the case of the Dodgers in Los Angeles—must compensate the first big league team for 40 per cent of its expenses.

The committee was appointed by Frick at the winter meetings in Colorado Springs after a deadlock of the two teams on territorial rights. Each league was scheduled to meet this morning with a joint session to follow in the afternoon.

It was expected at least one or two player trades would be consummated this weekend before the officials departed for their respective homes.

Michigan State Set To Play Northwestern

By The Associated Press
The top three teams in the Big Ten basketball race are idle because of semester examinations but a couple of other hopefuls — Northwestern and Michigan State — will be battling today to climb into second place.

Northwestern (2-2) will be at Michigan State (2-2) and the winner will move into a second place tie with Indiana and Ohio State, both with 3-2 records, one-half game behind league-leading Michigan (3-1).

Only one other conference game is scheduled today with Iowa at Minnesota in a regionally televised affair (5:30 p.m. CST). The Hawks (2-3) and Minnesota (1-2) are still nursing title hopes as are all conference teams in what is becoming one of the tightest races in years.

Michigan State will be favored over Northwestern since the Spartans defeated the Wildcats at Evanston last Saturday, 83 - 78. However, the Spartans were knocked off by Wisconsin, 66-52, Monday night.

Illinois will see action against Notre Dame in part of a Chicago Stadium doubleheader. The Illini have lost three straight after a Big Ten opening victory against Wisconsin. The other half of the doubleheader pits Marquette against Loyola of Chicago.

High School Club To Present Play

Activities, Projects Planned By Leetonia District Schools

By ELEANOR COPPERSMITH

Activities and projects in the various schools of the Leetonia School District are being announced for the near future.

The high school dramatic club will present its first production, "Rapunzel and the Witch" Feb. 8, in the school auditorium, under the direction of R. Richard Banker. The play, which is the children's story of the girl with the long hair who is imprisoned in a tower by the wicked witch, will be dramatized in two performances.

The first performance at 10:30 a.m. is designed primarily for the kindergarten and grade school audience. The evening presentation is for the high school and adult audience.

The three-act play is a Children's Theater Production, costumed in the middle ages.

Forty students comprise the club, representing the four high school grades.

Elementary Library

Miss Helen Heim, high school librarian, announces that a 600-book library will be a feature of the new Orchard Hill School. This elementary library has the distinction of being one of the few such libraries in this district.

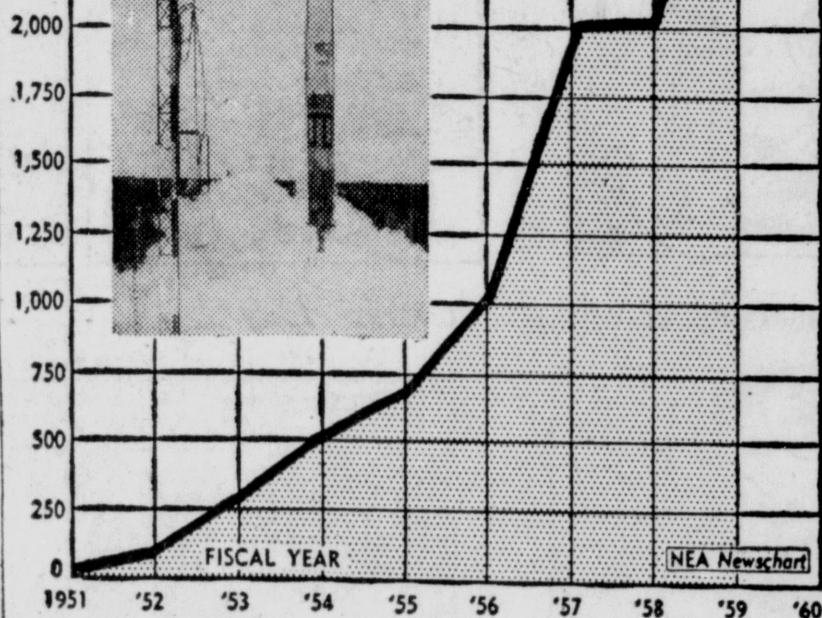

Miss Heim, who will divide her time between the two libraries, reported the addition of 2,000 books to the high school library since Sept., 1956. Of this amount, 440 were for the elementary library. She also reported a great amount of reading being done by the students, especially the junior high classes.

Dental Health Program

A dental health program is being conducted in the second, fourth and sixth grades of the district's schools, according to Mrs. James Degnan, school nurse.

The second grade students are engaged in brushing their teeth daily. The tooth brushes and cleanser are provided by the Parent-Teacher Association. At the conclusion of this program, a dental screening will be held.

The School Health Council will meet Feb. 6 to plan activities and make rules for the health and cleanliness poster contest to be held in February. The council is comprised of representatives of all phases of the school system, including the following teachers: Mr. and Mrs. Dan Friedberg, Mrs. Carl Mix, Nathan McMurrin, Miss Ann Topie, W. W. Bailey, Lee McMurrin, Virginia Mancuso of the student council; and Mrs. Victor Heil of the PTA.

Vocational Guidance

Through the aid of a tape recorder, Dan Friedberg, vocational guidance instructor, is able to present a variety of programs to the classes in the schools.

A new radio and high fidelity tape recorder were purchased through contributions of interested persons in the community. Educational and entertaining programs are taped from broadcasts of the Cleveland Board of Education, Duquesne University in Pittsburgh and Ohio State University.

A library of the various types of programs as planned by Mr. Friedberg. He also stated that recorders will be available at all buildings in the system in the near future.

Mr. Friedberg is in charge of the testing programs in the schools. Intelligence quotient tests are being conducted in grades two, four and six, thus compiling a record of each student during his years of study.

Achievement tests will be given to students in grades one through eight in the near future.

Mr. Friedberg, a member of the Industrial Information Institute, Inc., attended a meeting of the Institute's Guidance Administrators committee recently to review plans for the 1958 industrial exposition to be held March 10 at the Stambaugh Auditorium, Youngstown. Members of the ninth grade attend the exposition each year.

To enable a student to decide on his career, a large quantity of literature dealing with various professions, are made available through Mr. Friedberg. In addition to assisting the students with school problems, help is also given those with personal problems.

Teaching by Project Method

The system of teaching by the project method is found to be beneficial in the schools.

Various projects may be found in the classes at the Washingtonville Elementary School.

Members of the first grade class are supplying furniture for a playhouse erected in their room. The house, which measures four by seven feet, also aids in their study of homes and family life.

Distribution of graded papers, weekly literature and various other papers, is made easier by the means of the miniature post office installed in the second grade class room. Designed similar to the Washingtonville Post Office, each student is assigned a pigeon-hole for his mail. The mail is sorted by the postmaster whose roll is filled by a different student each day.

To further their study of winter birds, the third grade students have erected a bird feeder outside their class room window. This enables them to learn the various kinds of birds as they visit the feeder.

The students of the fourth grade have drawn a large map of the United States, to enable them to learn the states and the large cities which they will study.

In order to further their knowledge of foods, vitamins and nutrition, the fifth grades kept daily reports of the food eaten for two weeks. The reading groups of the class are preparing for a play, "Proud Princess." An individual project by one of the boys, is growing wheat in Ohio and Iowa soil, to determine which is the better soil.

Members of the sixth grade are beginning the study of rockets, and are using miniature rockets to aid them in their lessons. The study of astronomy is also planned for the group.

Working and playing together is a principle aim of the kindergarten class. Story time is enjoyed by the group, with time spent in coloring, painting and in lessons.

Patrolmen Report One Road Accident

Despite the snow, only one auto accident occurred on district highways last night.

Earl Whiting, 39, of East Sparata, escaped injury when the steering mechanism locked on his car, forcing it to crash into a guard rail on Rt. 39, one-half mile north of Wellsville, Friday at 4:45 p.m., state highway patrolmen reported.

No one has ever found two crystals of snow exactly alike, although thousands have been photographed for comparison.
